Jean Shepherd at Rutgers

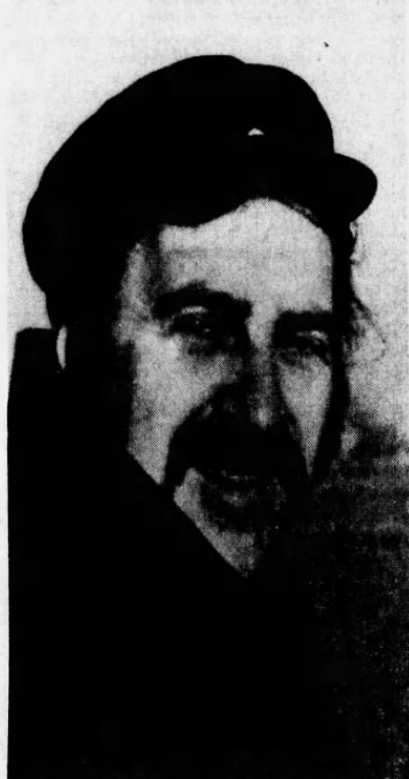

NEW BRUNSWICK — Radio and television personality Jean Shepherd will appear Thursday at the New Brunswick campus of Rutgers University, when the school's Commuter Council presents him at the Ledge on George St. at 8:30 p.m.

The Rutgers Commuter Council is a non-profit student organization.

"Jean Shepherd's America," the television series which first appeared on the Public Broadcasting Network, has returned to PBS for another cycle.

The series was written and performed by Shepherd in association with WGBH-TV in Boston and has Shepherd commenting on life in the United States as he travels through it.

He also is working on other projects for PBS and appears at colleges and universities throughout the country.
